

Call for Papers

The Leibniz Institute for Educational Trajectories (LifBi), the Federal Institute for Population Research (BiB), the Leibniz Education Research Network (LERN), and the College for Interdisciplinary Educational Research (CIDER) are delighted to invite you to the

CIDER-LERN Conference 2025

“Educational Success: Support, Measurement and Evaluation”

November 10–11, 2025

at the Leibniz Institute for Educational Trajectories (LifBi) in Bamberg.

The conference will bring together scholars from various disciplines to discuss findings as well as methodological and conceptual issues associated with educational research.

The general aim is to extend the CIDER network to other LERN institutes, universities and research institutions in order to support interdisciplinary cooperation among educational researchers. We invite all doctoral and postdoctoral researchers to participate by presenting their own work in a paper or a poster presentation.

The conference includes the following formats:

1. Keynote Lectures

Prof. Orla Doyle, Ph.D. (University College Dublin)

Prof. Dr. Samuel Greiff (Technical University Munich)

2. Paper Sessions, where individual papers can be presented for 15 minutes and discussed with other researchers of the field.

3. Poster Sessions, where research projects, preliminary findings, and datasets relevant to educational research can be presented.

4. Presentation and Discussion with representatives from Funding Organizations, which will give insights on how to apply for third party funding.

5. Data sessions with representatives from NEPS and FReDA, which will introduce opportunities for educational research using these panel data sets.

For further information concerning the submission process, see page 2.

If you have further questions, please contact us at cider-coordination@dipf.de.

We look forward to welcoming you in Bamberg!

Prof. Dr. Cordula Artelt (LifBi) - Prof. Dr. C. Katharina Spieß (BiB)
