During the Summer School we will work with padlets among other tools. In the process of preparing for the conference you will be provided with access to the padlets. There you will find the updated agenda, background information and accompanying materials. Please prepare a short profile (500 characters) about yourself, which you can post on a padlet prepared especially for this purpose.

Background Information

Corona has changed our everyday life and the activities as university teachers and students. What was unimaginable at the beginning of the year has become reality. Corona has given a boost to digitalisation. All our courses as well as the communication with students and colleagues are digital. In the meantime, we have a wide range of digital tools in use. Ad-hoc digitalisation has given impulses for teaching and learning at our universities but also for the world of work and thus for business practice. There will be no return to the time before Corona.

Therefore we need to position teaching and learning at our universities for the post-Corona period in the long term in order to become crisis-proof, to become fit for the future and to further develop innovations.

At the same time, we have to deal with the impact that digitization has on our subject and what skills our students need in order to be able to compete successfully on the labour market of the future.

In order to discuss these questions with each other, we have prepared - at short notice – the following
